

Welcome to where I live, heaven. I'm willing to teach you some things. I can shower you with love. I can make your life beautiful with meaning. I work with the help of other souls. All I want from you is your heart. I try my best to hide from you. I'm always beside you.

You will keep me going further. You will learn to love others. You can find me in the light. You will forgive.
You will feel the warmth I seek. You will wish to be like me. You will be granted happiness. You will run towards the light.

I Am God's best servant. I'm the strongest guardian. I grow stronger with love. I will seek to help you find yourself. I will always be watching you grow. You will find me deep inside your heart. I was born with you.

And the angel whispers, come as you are.

I can hear them every second.

What do I do when the angels and demons battle in my mind while I watch helplessly, waiting for someone to save me.

This war grows as my emotions grow.

I can't stop it.

It gets so loud I can't handle my emotions

Yet it can also get so silent you can hear your heart beat every second.

Show me a way, I'm ready.

They don't accept you.

The demons nor the angels.

You have no control over your thoughts anymore.

Both the angels and demons watch you break as they watch parts of themselves try to fight it out with my soul.

That's how it is.

You can't stop it.

You can't escape it, for the pain brings the demons out and the love brings the angels out.

Falling asleep, entering a dream
Deep into the land of nothingness
Feeling of infinite hollow dark space surrounding me
I finally feel myself hitting rock bottom
There I see a soul
Identical in appearance as me

All I could feel was emptiness from that soul
Neither light nor darkness
The soul approached me and asked me what I need
I said I needed help to find myself
The soul smiled
I could feel unimaginable power
I fell to the ground
As the power was so strong the gravity went beyond measure which made me paralysed

The soul looked into my eyes
Within a heartbeat could feel my heart give into the darkness the soul then said your heart seeks power
For the darkness will give you power
For power can be obtained only through darkness

The soul then touched my chest
I felt a light that angels carry
My heart was immediately filled with light
The soul looked like an angel
The soul then said
You contain a light so bright
That can blind the angels
Yet you also possess darkness
That can extinguish that light
I am the thing that saves you
And kills you
I am the reason you feel pain
And love
I am what you are The soul
Had the wings of an angel And the aura of a demon
For it was a demonic angel

Falling, deep into an empty space
Deeper I fall into darkness Stronger it gets Making me give into hatred

As I fell to the darkest corner
I felt a powerful entity
The lust to kill
The deep sense of hatred

This demon filled with dark energy
Tries to kill me
I fight with my strength keeping the demon at shore

I ask the demon
What are the reasons for it's desire to kill me
The demon replied
I was born with you
Your pain is what gives me strength
Your pain is the fuel for my hatred

The demon showed such strength
Which made me crumble to the floor

I was filled with pain
I desired such strength
With my last breath I said
You can take over me now

The demon with a smile said
I will never conquer you
You see, in this realm You are immortal
Death is not an option
All that awaits you
Is endless pain

A sword goes through my chest
And then
I wake up to reality

I'm mad, for the love that wasn't here for the times I felt I deserved more

For the times I let my mind become my enemy

For the times I cared more about others than myself

For the times I cried for nothing

For the times I gave myself into the darkness

I'm sad, for the love that wasn't here For the times I felt heartbreak and misery

For the times I hurt loved one's

For the times I failed over and over again

For the times I felt I had nothing For the times I let everyone down

I'm scared, of the darkness that surrounds me

Of the love that will not come Of this feeling lasting forever

Of the times I think about failure

Of the pain that doesn't cease to exist

*I'm frustrated, of the darkness that surrounds me
Of the love that wasn't here
Of the strength turning into weakness
Of the demons in my mind
Holding me by the chains every second
Of the light I chase
Diminishing every second
Of the love I give Turn into ashes
Of the times I wish to dream
Just ending up surviving*

*I'm happy, for the friends I have For the good times and memories
For the warmth I feel when I hug that person
For the strength I get from them
For bringing some light into my world of darkness
For the hope they give me*

What are you?
Why do I want you?
What is that unknown energy you carry?
What is this feeling you cast upon me?

You've given me such pain
Such pain which made me lose myself
Such pain which fueled hatred
Such pain which led to countless tears
Such pain which breeds darkness

Why do I want you so bad?
Even though I hate you for the pain you've caused
I want to destroy you
Such hatred I possess for you

The more I try to chase you
The deeper I go into the darkness
The more I try to run away from you
The deeper I go into darkness

You are always around me
In the grasp of my arms
Yet so far away
Ohh, so far away

There's no way I can destroy you
For you are what that created life
You are the life of a soul

You posses energy greater than the mightiest gods
You are the reason why miracles exist
You are the reason for war and peace
You are the one thing that everyone desires
You are what makes us human

You are the angel carrying light
You are the demon reigning darkness
You turn heaven into hell
Hell into heaven
You can heal the soul
Yet you can also break it into infinite pieces

Every single living entity is under your spell
The soul yearns for you
I really don't understand what you are For you are my greatest weakness
For you are
Love

Running, trying to find my way out of this darkness
I see a light up ahead
I run as fast as I can.
As I reach closer to the light I slow down.
As I set foot into the light the whole realm changes.
Bright as daylight.

There I see someone sitting with his back towards me. He gets up slowly and turns around. I was not able to believe it. He was a reflection of me, slowly walking towards me. As he was slowly walking I could see him change.

Wings started growing. A halo was growing over his head. As he got closer, his wings grew completely. One wing of a demon, one wing of an angel. One part of the halo gives off light while the other one gives out darkness.

Come, he said. Let me show you the way. I follow him. He shows me a stairway to a door. For the stairway were the fallen bodies of angels and demons that lead to the door. These are the bodies of the angels and demons that have fallen due to the war you started.

Pain, desire, greed, hunger and most importantly, love and the search for meaning started this endless war in you. As I walk on the bodies of the angels and demons towards the door I can sense the realm changing again. As I get to the door the realm completely changes. It was beautiful, the breeze blowing, water so clear that it could reflect the moon, flowers and everything that one could find peace with.

Nothing ever felt better.

He smirked and smiled. The realm started changing.

Everything was going dark. The flowers are dying, the breeze blowing so strong where I can't hold my ground. He said time is not our friend. It never was. It's time to go now. Only one of us can exist. He came closer to me and reached out to my heart through my chest. He touched it and I could feel the scars healing. Until next time he said and started walking away. Slowly feeling myself turn into ashes I look at him slowly walk away. Wings and the halo slowly falling off.

Goodbye I said, while I completely turned into ashes. Blown away by the breeze Whispers in the dark.

Let it go, let it be, you're strong, it's too late.

Don't let me go.

Immediately you feel like you're drowning in water possessing dark energy while your fingers slip away from the hands of the person you want to be saved by. I can't get back up on top. The darkness is taking me deeper into the water. All hope is lost. I finally decided to let go. I turn away and let myself go deeper into the darkness. Feeling intense sparks of energy I finally lose consciousness. I thought everything ended but I finally woke up to a dark sky with infinite stars and a red moon which could control the darkness. It was beyond imagination. I decided to get up and walk. I see many mountains up ahead and I decide to get closer to the moon by climbing them. As I keep walking I can feel my soul trembling with pain and fear. I stop and look behind.

Dark clouds covered up the stars and darkness took over. I turn around and look ahead. Infinite stars and the beautiful moon are up ahead. It felt like darkness was following me with every step I took. I continued my journey. As I got to the top of the mountain, the red moon was shining bright with infinite power. I could feel my skin burn and deteriorate because of the moon's bright power. It felt like poison. Chaotic yet so beautiful. I felt so cold yet my insides were burning up with pain. As tears started rolling down my eyes I looked at my hand with a blurry vision. I Wish I could stay longer. I look down the mountain, I see an ocean with water possessing darker energy than I could ever feel. I look behind me. The clouds conquered all the stars. Darkness was right behind me. The moon couldn't kill me anymore. There was nothing left to kill. All I could feel was my soul burning up on the inside. I finally jumped into the water.

Drowning deep into nothingness

Welcome to where I was born, hell. I'm going to make you learn a few things. I can bestow you with unlimited power. I can make your life indestructible with agony. I work alone devouring souls. All I want from you is your soul. You try your best to hide from me. I'm always behind you.

You will stop here. You will learn to hate others. You can find me in the darkness. You will never forget. You will feel the cold blooded nature I lay upon you. You will wish to conquer me. You will be granted forbidden power. You will run deep into the darkness.

I was God's best servant. I'm the broken angel. I grow stronger with hate. I will seek to destroy you. I will always be watching you bleed. You will find me deep inside your heart. I was born within you.

And the demon screams, you'll be coming with me.