

Welcome to where I live, heaven. I'm willing to teach you some things. I can shower you with love. I can make your life beautiful with meaning. I work with the help of other souls. All I want from you is your heart. I try my best to hide from you. I'm always beside you.

You will keep going further. You will learn to love others. You can find me in the light. You will forgive. You will feel the warmth I seek. You will wish to be like me. You will be granted happiness. You will run towards the light.

I am god's best servant. I am the strongest guardian. I grow stronger with love. I will seek to help you find yourself. I will always be watching you grow. You will find me deep inside your heart. I was born with you.

And the angel whispers, come as you are.

I can't possibly think about where to start. I now feel like I've known you forever and yet I still haven't seen enough of you. I've always wished I met you earlier. I wish I could find out if I would've been a different person now, either stronger or more mature.

You are the only change I've welcomed into my life without any twisted feelings. The memories I've had with you are something I'll always cherish. I think the world of you. I always wonder how I met you and how lucky I am to have you in my life.

I feel like all those years of disaster
finally led to something I can be happy about and that is you. I start to wonder what good things life holds when I think about the memories I've yet to have with you. Sometimes that makes me want to do something about my life. I've always wished for someone to save me.

I used to close my eyes and I used to see a pair of hands with no face or identity. Now that person is turning out to be to you and I couldn't ask for more. You're the only one who has peeked into my door of the demon's house and accepted my demons.

I can't think of any other person willing to accept who I am. I wish I could see everything that goes on inside you. Good or bad. I wish to see the world with you. I hope you do too.

I feel so blessed when you try to change me for the better. I can't thank you enough for that.

Sometimes I see you and I still can't believe I can love someone with such abundance and still fall deeper in love.

The feeling I get when I hug you is still something I can't explain. I really wish I can give you what you deserve. I wish to see you do well all the time.

Thank you for everything.

I LOVE YOU.

Welcome to where I was born, hell. I'm going to make you learn a few things. I can bestow you with unlimited power. I can make your life indestructible with agony. I work alone devouring souls. All I want from you is your soul. You try your best to hide from me. I'm always behind you.

You will stop here. You will learn to hate others. You can find me in the darkness. You will never forget. You will feel the cold blooded nature I lay upon you. You will wish to conquer me. You will be granted forbidden power. You will run deeper into the darkness.

I was god's best servant. I am the broken angel. I grow stronger with hate. I will seek to destroy you. I will always be watching you bleed. You will find me deep inside your heart. I was born within you.

And the demon screams, you'll be coming with me.